SORRENTO
We will spend an evening in Sorrento, Italy.
Pompeii is one of the most significant proofs of Roman civilization and provides outstanding information on the art, customs, and everyday life of the past. The city has re-emerged from the darkness of centuries precisely as it would have been when it was unexpectedly buried in the thick layer of ash and lava which poured down from the devastating eruption of Vesuvius.
The sanctuary of Apollo at Delphi extends over a series of terraces in the foothills of Mount Parnassos, between two enormous rocks, called the Phaidriades. For many centuries this was the religious and spiritual center of the ancient Greek world. According to tradition, Delphi was the geographical center of the world, the omphalos ("navel"), the meeting point of two eagles dispatched by Zeus from the ends of the universe to find the center of the world.

The Parthenon, Athens
The Acropolis of Athens was both a fortress and a sanctuary mainly for the worship of the goddess protecting the city, goddess Athena, after whom the city was named. The monument lying here today were built in the 5th century BC to celebrate the rise of the city-state of Athens to the zenith of its power. Famous sculptors and architects, like Phidias, Mnesicles, Iktinos, took it upon themselves to create a monument that would reverberate through the centuries the glory of the city.
